- Footwear: Campus Trekking or CTR Trekking shoes are compulsory for this trek. They provide the necessary grip and support on slippery rock patches.
- Comfort: This offbeat trek doesn't offer the usual amenities like western or hygienic toilets with lights. The base village doesn't have electricity, so bring your power bank and a torch. Also, remember to carry a mobile rain cover and appropriate clothing for cover-up against insect bites.

During the trek, you'll enjoy walking on empty trails, encountering breathtaking streams, and experiencing the thrill of climbing slippery rock patches. Swimming will not be allowed in deep ends due to the fluctuating water flow depending on the weather conditions.

However, safe marked zones will allow you to enjoy the waterfall. Please be aware that there are multiple river crossings, making this hike suitable for confident trekkers who have completed various treks in the Sahyadri range. It is not recommended for first-time trekkers or parents with kids.
